

Outdoor battery pack

The new network cameras with SD slot for recording offers the option to make temporary camera installations very easy. For indoor we offer still power pack solutions for that. But what happens when the area you want to observe is outdoor, too cold or dusty? For that we now have an outdoor powerpack where you can build in many different camera models. The camera and the battery is protected against all weather conditions. You decide the size and runtime from the battery. It is possible to charge it with an external device or you can change the battery completely very easily.

As an option we also can integrate wireless transmitters into the power box. Also a solar panel for charging support can be added.
